Aug 12, 2026

This peer learning course, built on the "Malaria: Turning the tide" insights report with the RBM Partnership to End Malaria, required the learner to study peer experience across four modules, answer six learning questions with specific accounts from their own work, review the work of three colleagues using a structured rubric, and respond to feedback received. This certificate documents a verified contribution to collective, practice-based knowledge. It does not constitute a formal qualification or endorsement of competency. The certificate holder is requested to share the full certification specifications upon request.
